

Improvement in overall state of pupil and student welfare

Student welfare steering groups, pupil and student welfare groups and education providers evaluated the state of pupil and student welfare to be better after the act entered into force than before the act (Figure 1). After the act, pupil and student welfare work has become more systematic and multidisciplinary across all educational levels.

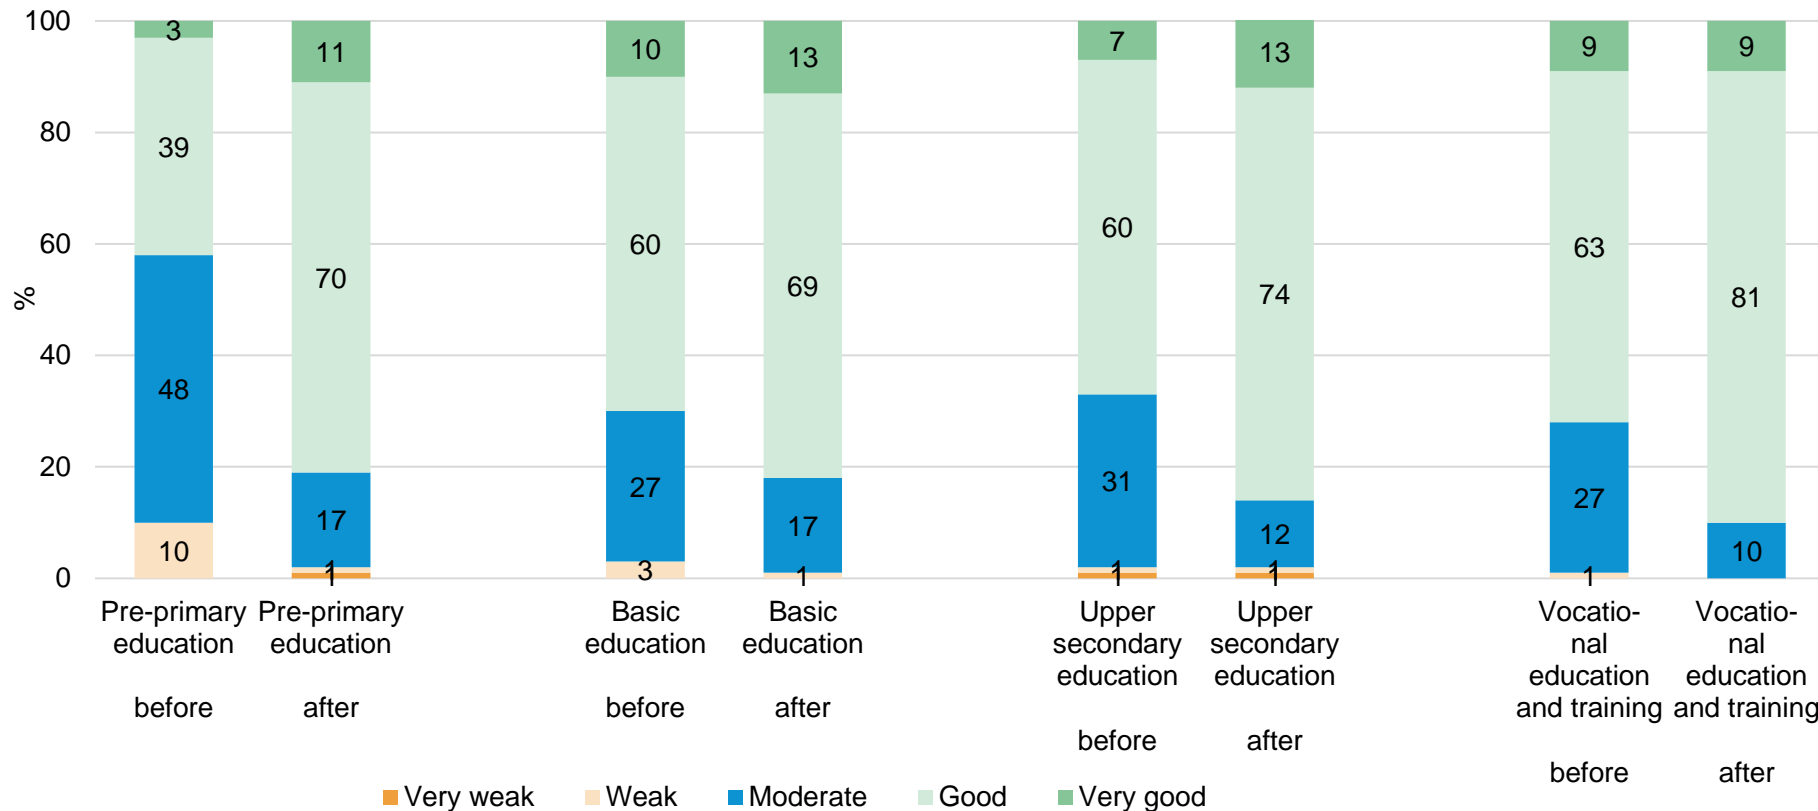

Figure 1. The state of pupil and student welfare in pre-primary education, basic education, upper secondary education and vocational education and training before and after the Pupil and Student Welfare Act was enacted (n = 101–444).